Skinning Cats For The Second Amendment

Stop Prop 1A

One of the games that gun control advocates like to play is to pretend they have another agenda. They claim they are concerned about saving California Condors so they advocate banning lead ammunition. They claim they are concerned about forest fires so they advocate banning shooting in wilderness areas. They claim to be concerned about stopping shootings so they advocate gun free zones.

Well, two can play at that game.

California remains in a budget crisis. And anything that can be demonstrated to cost the state more money is likely to be put on the back burner. More importantly, they will likely remain on the back burner until the state gets more money.

So what can we do to keep the state from getting more money?

Stop Prop 1 A.

Prop 1A would allow the state to keep recent tax increases in force for several more years.

Prop 1A would allow the state to take money out of its' Prop 58 "rainy day fund" and use it for day to day operations and expenses.

Prop 1A would guarantee a larger portion of our budget to the black hole of public education.

If PROP 1A FAILS to pass, ALL ANTI-GUN LEGISLATION GETS LEFT ON THE BACK BURNER because it will force the state to spend more money than it has. This is roughly the same thing that stopped anti-gun legislation last year. And we need to make sure it happens again.

ACTION

Tell EVERYONE you know to vote against Prop 1A. Tell them it will allow the state to continue raising their taxes. Tell them Prop 1A will allow the state to raid the emergency rainy day fund to pay for pork barrel spending today. Tell them Prop 1A will allow Sacramento to put California even deeper into debt.

There's more than one way to skin a cat !
